1. Introduction to Monika and Elite Cabin Crew

Hi, I'm Monika.

Thank you for downloading our e-book on how to become a VIP flight attendant for private jet airlines. Much of the information provided in this e-book is not readily available online- you can search for detailed information about private jets, but you won't be able to find a lot of the important details. That's where we come in! Based on our experience and close connections with recruiters in the private jet world, we can offer you hands-on assistance and detailed information that is simply not available elsewhere!

Before we get started, let me introduce myself and explain why I'm best placed to help you with your journey.

Together with other specialists in the field- flight attendants, ex-HR recruiters, and other industry experts- I founded Elite Cabin Crew in 2018 to help young men and women achieve their goals of becoming cabin crew for the best-known commercial airlines and private jets airlines. Growing up in the Czech Republic, I was always surrounded by tourists coming to see the beautiful sights in my own country and quickly developed a curiosity for other cultures and countries. As I got older, I was never sure what career path would be right for me, but I knew I wanted to see the world. While I was figuring out which path to take, I worked in a number of different jobs- a hostess at restaurants, as a personal trainer, and in a few sales positions. I realized that I was a great fit for customer service oriented jobs – I was confident, friendly, helpful and always smiling. What's more, I loved working with people from all over the world.

So, in 2011 when a few friends of mine told me about their work with Emirates Airlines, I immediately began to dream of traveling the skies to new countries and seeing the world in a job that would build on my skill sets and let me work with people from diverse backgrounds.

So far so good. But I didn't really know how to get there... Dubai seemed like a million miles away. What could someone like me with no previous airline experience offer to a global company like Emirates?

After months of research on the different airlines and jobs available, I knew that I wanted to become Emirates cabin crew. I worked hard to prepare a clear and professional CV, took a hundred different pictures before settling on the perfect one, and read countless articles online about preparing for assessment days. When the assessment day finally came, I felt ready, but I was always worried that I didn't have what it took to get an interview.

Fortunately, my hard work and research had paid off and I was selected to continue into the second round. In the end, I was one of only three candidates selected out of more than 300 applicants! I finally made it.

After 5 years in Dubai, my love for life in the skies was confirmed and I knew this was the right career path for me. I loved my time with Emirates and was able to see and experience so many new countries and cultures I had only dreamed of as a little girl in Czech Republic.

Fast forward a few years and I was itching for a change. While I absolutely loved my job, I began looking for new opportunities with private jets. My experience and background made me a solid candidate for VIP airlines, but I knew I'd have to showcase my personality to really set me apart from other applicants. I began applying for positions with private companies and VIP clients, and within a few months I was offered a position with the royal family of Jordan. Working with VVIP clients was rewarding, and I loved the chance to live in a new place with new opportunities. After a few years, I started applying for other roles, and was soon offered another VVIP position with the royal family of Saudi Arabia where I work today.

As someone with years of experience, I was constantly getting questions from friends and people I met along the way about how I got started, and how could they manage to land a job like mine? I realized I had a lot to offer to men and women looking to join the aviation industry. I know the recruitment requirements, what to expect out of the process, and have insider information about various airlines and VVIP opportunities. So, in 2018 I founded Elite Cabin Crew as a way to help people navigate the long road to becoming a cabin crew. My hope is that my experience and knowledge, combined with a team of specialized colleagues, can help you achieve your cabin crew dreams today. Who knows? Maybe one day you'll be working for a royal family too!

In the meantime, I'm here to offer you guidance, answers to questions, and mentorship along your journey.

Here I am pre-cabin crew (left), with Emirates (center) and in my newest position with a VVIP private airline. Come fly with me!

Elite Cabin Crew

Along with a team of industry experts, I founded Elite Cabin Crew in 2018 as a way to support ambitious men and women to fulfill their dreams of becoming cabin crew- both for commercial and private airlines. Today, the business excels thanks to a team of specialized individuals, including other cabin crew, ex-HR recruiters from Emirates, and design specialists with a combined thirty years of experience. Each Elite Cabin Crew team member shares the common goal of helping you become the best applicant you can be. Elite Cabin Crew has people to answer all of your burning questions and to help you create the perfect CV, help you prepare for every step of the recruitment process, and provide one-on-one support for your questions and concerns.

2. What people are saying about us...

I GOT MY DREAM JOB! All thanks to Monika's professional team! After her online course, all her instructions helped finding my current dream job as a VVIP FA. I was working in commercial and I really cant thank them enough to help me to achieve this incredible upgrade in my career! If you follow Monika's guidance and you work on it, you will GET your dream job as I did!! :) THANK YOU !

- Lucia Longobardo Martin

I would like to recommend and thank Monika and her team for their great and passionate work.
I did one to one Skype session with Monika to prepare me for my interview and test flight for a VIP FA position.
We covered all the aspects of private jet flying from catering, silver spoon service to expected salaries and conditions.
Her work didn't stop just there. She has many contacts in the corporate world and she always informs me about new job openings.

- Zlata Kuncincka

Great thank you to Monika and the team!
I contacted them regarding VIP CV and cover letter writing - I got more than expected - great tips for interviews, inside view on the applicant from her HR team, real enhancement on my CV, presenting the best of my experience in a personal and professional manner. Very easy to communicate with, very professional and flexible with my "urgent" request.
My recommendation for everyone who is interested in VIP crew jobs 🌟😊 Great job!

Do you have what it takes to be a VIP flight attendant? Let's find out.

If you answer YES to all of the following questions, we're confident that a VIP flight attendant position is the job for you!

1. Do you have 1-2 years of commercial cabin crew experience?
2. Do you speak English fluently?
3. Do you want to earn double the money as you earn in commercial airlines?
4. Do you want more days off?
5. Do you want to fly less than you do with commercial airlines?

If you answered "NO" to any of these questions, let us know what you're unsure of and we can discuss whether or not VIP flying is right for you.

If you answered, "YES!", keep going to read about what you can get out of the e-book, what other support Elite Cabin Crew can provide, and get the inside scoop on private jet airlines.

3. What can you expect out of this E-Book?

This e-book is intended to lay out all of the information you will need to get started in your VIP flight attendant career, and it is meant to guide those with several years of commercial cabin crew experience who are ready to apply for private airline positions. This e-book includes basic information about VIP cabin crew life, the major differences between commercial and private VIP flying, tips for your application process, and the key requirements for VIP positions in the Middle East.

This e-book is just the tip of the iceberg in terms of what Elite Cabin Crew can do for you! Although you'll find important information that is useful in making some initial decisions and planning, there's so much more to learn. That's why Elite Cabin Crew offers personalized packages for those interested in taking this journey to the next level. Whether you need help designing and writing the perfect CV, tailoring your cover letter to highlight what makes you special, or more personalized one-on-one coaching to get you through the process, we've got your back!

Why do you need it?

There might be hundreds of applicants for private jets, and the company may only need 1 person. With commercial airlines, there are thousands of girls in the initial stages, and finally they select a few select candidates. But they have open days on a regular basis. With private jets and private airlines, the recruitment process might only happen once a year, and they will likely only take a few new team members each time (or even one)!!

Elite Cabin Crew can help you stand out.

4. Introducing the World of Private Jets

You have a few years of experience as commercial airline cabin crew, and now you're ready to begin looking for new opportunities in private jet airlines flying with private owners, charter companies, and royal families. But what does it mean to fly private? Are there major differences from flying commercial?

To be honest, the major differences are that flying with private jets offers you:

MORE MONEY

MORE TIME OFF

LESS FLYING

Flying private has many similarities to flying as commercial cabin crew, but there are some important differences to consider. More information about salary and benefits is available in the next section.

Here I am loving life as a VIP flight attendant - can you picture yourself here?!

5. Key Information about Private Flying

Let's take a look at some key information about the world of private jets and being a flight attendant for private airlines.

Locations:

There are several large hubs for private aviation companies. In this e-book we are focusing on Europe and the Middle East. BUT don't worry; we have connections to other regions like Africa too. To discuss opportunities in other regions, set up a call with us today!

Global hubs for private jets:

In the Middle East, most private jet companies are based out of the United Arab Emirates, Qatar or Saudi Arabia. In Europe, hubs can be found in France, the United Kingdom, Russia and Switzerland. Other regional hubs include Nigeria, South Africa and all across the United States.

Types of Private Jet Flights

There are three main types of private aviation companies and each type has some difference in how much they fly, which destinations they fly to/from, and the conditions for cabin crew (flight time, frequency, rotations, etc.)

1. Charter Airlines

- a. What is it? Any individual, group of people or company can rent an aircraft to go to a certain destination; charter flights are basically renting the plane for private use.
- b. Rotation: [REDACTED]
- c. Staffing: [REDACTED]
- d. Airplanes: Charter companies usually have smaller planes, which means that a single cabin crew can operate each flight.
 Don't worry! During training you'll always have another cabin crew to show you how it's done and provide on-the-job training before they let you fly alone.*
- e. Who is this right for? [REDACTED]

Charter planes often cater to businessmen and women with a luxurious and practical design.

2. Airlines for Private Owner

- a. What is it? These are aircrafts that are owned by a private individual, family or business. For example, a businessman and his partner or family could own a private plane, and you will fly with them wherever they go.
- b. Rotation: [REDACTED]
- c. Staffing: Private aircrafts usually have very small teams- around 2-3 flight attendants, but sometimes between 6-8 people for larger airplanes.
- d. Airplanes: Private owners usually have small planes and have one cabin crew on each flight. This means [REDACTED]
- e. Who is it right for? Flying for private owners offers less flying time for flight attendants. [REDACTED]

Look at these beautiful interiors!! Private jets are comfortable, sleek, and nothing like normal commercial airplanes. Can you picture yourself working in one of these?!

3. Flying with a Royal Family

a. What is it? Flying with a Royal Family means just that- you are providing services for some member or members of a Royal family. This could be anyone and is not necessarily a head of state (King or Queen), and it could be his/her immediate family or other members of their family (e.g. aunts, nephews, cousins). Most of these positions are available in the Middle East (although they may occasionally come up in Europe or other regions too). In the Middle East it is common to work for Sheikhs as well.

b. Rotation: [REDACTED]

c. Staffing: There are typically a number of cabin crew employed by royal families to make sure all flight needs are covered.

d. Airplanes: Royal aircrafts are usually quite large in size and need multiple cabin crew. There is often a lead flight attendant who is responsible for catering and overseeing other cabin crew staff too.

e. Who is it right for?

Don't worry about the rumors- we know the facts!

Who wouldn't want to fly in one of these?! Talk about luxurious travel...

6. Applying for your Dream Job

Ready for the next step? Let's go through them one-by-one.

Once you decide where you want to apply, it's time to really get started! The key things you will need are a well-organized curriculum vitae (CV) and professional photographs in business attire. Your CV and photos are the first time recruiters see your face and get a first impression of you- they are VERY important.

Depending on the company you are applying with, the application and interview process can be different. Usually, they include a phone call or Skype interview and an in-person interview at a company base office with a recruitment specialist. There may also be an assessment day during which the company recruiters will assess your team management, leadership and practical skills.

PRO TIPS:

- Keep your LinkedIn updated and looking sharp! Recruiters will look you up and you want to put your best foot first.
- For your CV, use a clean and neat template that highlights your achievements in the customer service arena, and shows that you can handle responsibility.
- Don't forget to include key details like [REDACTED]. These are important to private company recruiters, and there are differences for private airlines in the Middle East and Europe - we know all about them!
- Have professional photos taken so that you have a variety of photos to choose from depending on the company requirements. Private jets and airlines have different photo requirements, and Elite Cabin Crew knows exactly what each recruiter is looking for. Let us help you!
